

BRITISH JOURNAL OF COMMUNITY NURSING

bjcn.co.uk

Volume 28 Number 11
November 2023

The only monthly journal dedicated to nursing in the home

Intermittent self-catheterisation: the gold standard for individuals with bladder dysfunction

Can medication increase the risk of falls?
The importance of medication review

Cognitive frailty in older adults with diabetes: prevalence and risk factors

BRITISH JOURNAL OF COMMUNITY NURSING

Volume 28 Number 11 November 2023

Editorial

Prioritising wellbeing in the community nursing workforce

Patricia Robinson

While's Words

The influenza and COVID-19 season approaches...

Alison While

Treatments

Malnutrition and nutrition in the community

Aysha Mendes

Palliative care

Achieving a dignified death in palliative nursing

Brian Nyatanga

Care of the older person

Can medication increase the risk of falls? The importance of medication review

Linda Nazarko

525 Professional 542

Exploring the delivery of end-of-life care by community nurses

Elizabeth Ferguson, Leanne Wiseman, Fiona Stratton, Catherine Evans, Joanna Linton, Laura McLeod and Juliet MacArthur

528

Professional 550

Intermittent self-catheterisation: the gold standard for individuals with bladder dysfunction

Ann Yates

530

Professional 557

Cognitive frailty in older adults with diabetes: prevalence and risk factors

Mohamed Mansoor, Joanna Harrison and James Edward Hill

532

Research 561

The experiences, needs and expectations of patients regarding participation at home: an explorative study in Belgium

Kristien Scheepmans, Sibyl Anthierens, Uschi De Coster, Benjamin Willaert, Louis Paquay, Kristel De Vliegher, Ann Van Hecke and Sofie Verhaeghe

534