

JOURNAL OF
Gerontological
Nursing[®]

Integrating gerontological content in nursing curricula

Simulation-based dementia education to increase empathy

Protein intake and physical activity level

Addressing ego depletion to improve health promotion behaviors

IV iron use in older adults

Personalized playlists

Listening to songs from young adulthood to reduce agitation and improve morale among persons with dementia

JOURNAL OF

Gerontological Nursing®

GEROPHARMACOLOGY

8 Intravenous Iron Use in Older Adults

Hsin-Hui Chen, PharmD; and Katie E. Cardone, PharmD, BCACP, FNKF, FASN, FCC

RESEARCH ARTICLES

14 Aging Matters: A Multi-Site Study and Call to Action for Integrating Gerontological Content into Bachelor of Science, Associate Degree, and Practical Nursing Program Curricula

Deborah D. Brabham, PhD, RN, CNE; and Cynthia Fletcher, PhD, RN

22 Improvements in Dementia Symptoms Through Personalized Music

Lindsay Grainger, DNP, MPH, RN

30 Enhancing Empathy: A Mixed Methods Exploration of Dementia Simulation in Occupational Therapy and Nursing Education

Suzanne Parkman, PhD, RN, CNE; Julie Larouche, OTD, OTR/L; Ashley Condon, DNP, APRN, FNP-C; and Abou El-Makarim Aboueissa, PhD

37 Association of Low Protein Intake and Lower Physical Activity in Korean Older Adults

Eunjae Lee, PhD; and Seung-Taek Lim, PhD

44 Heterogeneity of Ego Depletion and Its Relationship With Health Promotion Behavior Among Older Adults With Type 2 Diabetes Mellitus: Latent Profile Analysis

Zhijia Shen, MS, RN; Limei Yin, MB, RN; Jingyan Zhong, MB, RN; Zhijie Qian, MB, MBBS; and Ni Weiju, MB, RN

Cover image © 2025 Stock.Adobe.com