

Journal of Obstetric, Gynecologic, & Neonatal Nursing

JOGNN

Scholarship for the Care of Women, Childbearing Families, & Newborns

MAY 2025, VOLUME 54, NUMBER 3

JOGNN.org

EDITORIAL

Resisting Censorship in Nursing and Midwifery Research

COLUMNS

STATISTICS FOR NURSING RESEARCH

Importance of Limitation Sections in Clinical Research and Quality Improvement Manuscripts

CURRENT EVIDENCE TO GUIDE PRACTICE, POLICY, AND RESEARCH

Removal of the Race-Based Correction in the Vaginal Birth After Cesarean Calculator

BRIEF REPORT

Recommendations From Arizona Budtenders to Mystery Callers Regarding Morning Sickness

RESEARCH

Moderating Effects of Coping Styles on the Relationship Between Nursing Stress and Mental Health Among NICU Nurses

Patient-Provider Prenatal Nutrition Conversations Using a Human Factors Approach

HEALTH CARE IMPROVEMENT AND EVALUATION

Evaluation of Universal Screening for Substance Use Risk on a Labor and Delivery Unit in Rural Pennsylvania

CASE REPORT

Case Report of Vaginal Breech Birth

SPECIAL SERIES: BLACK MATERNAL HEALTH

EDITORIALS

Advancing Birth Quality by Bridging Historical and Contemporary Gaps in Black Maternal Health

Where Are All the Black Midwives?

CRITICAL COMMENTARY

Traditional Black Midwifery to Enhance Birth Justice

RESEARCH

Historical Study of the Graduates of the Tuskegee School of Nurse-Midwifery, a Program for Black Nurses

Perceptions of Provider Inquiry Regarding Housing Status Among Pregnant Women Experiencing Housing Instability

ELSEVIER

EDITORIAL

259 Resisting Censorship in Nursing and Midwifery Research

The Editor in Chief examines the multifaceted nature of censorship in academic research, the implications for nursing and midwifery research, and strategies to resist censorship.

Joyce K. Edmonds

COLUMNS

STATISTICS FOR NURSING RESEARCH

263 Importance of Limitation Sections in Clinical Research and Quality Improvement Manuscripts

A description of study limitations is a critical component of reporting research findings that can help future researchers and clinical teams improve patient outcomes.

Oliwier Dziadkowiec

CURRENT EVIDENCE TO GUIDE PRACTICE, POLICY, AND RESEARCH

268 Removal of the Race-Based Correction in the Vaginal Birth After Cesarean Calculator

The author provides current evidence on the removal of the race-based correction in the updated vaginal birth after cesarean calculator.

Summer Sherburne Hawkins

BRIEF REPORT

282 Recommendations From Arizona Budtenders to Mystery Callers Regarding Morning Sickness

Budtenders at most Arizona cannabis dispensaries recommended cannabis products for morning sickness, but only one-third proactively advised medical consultation.

Michael J. Madson, Unnati Srivastava, and Yoshita Gade

RESEARCH

288 Moderating Effects of Coping Styles on the Relationship Between Nursing Stress and Mental Health Among NICU Nurses

Problem-oriented coping is an important resource for NICU nurses because it mitigates the negative effects of nursing stress on mental health.

Peter Barr

298 Patient-Provider Prenatal Nutrition Conversations Using a Human Factors Approach

Addressing contextual factors into patient-centered conversations about nutrition is vital to optimize the dietary habits of pregnant women.

Katherine Erbe, Elizabeth Lerner Papautsky, Kylea Liese, Chang Park, Julianne Rutherford, Lisa Tussing-Humphreys, Yanqiao Li, Arissara Sawatpanich, and Mary Dawn Koenig

HEALTH CARE IMPROVEMENT AND EVALUATION

311 Evaluation of Universal Screening for Substance Use Risk on a Labor and Delivery Unit in Rural Pennsylvania

Results indicated that the National Institute on Drug Abuse Quick Screen with the modified Alcohol, Smoking, and Substance Involvement Screening Test was an acceptable, appropriate, and feasible universal substance use screening tool for use by nurses, midwives, and physicians on a labor and delivery unit.

Mary R. Habashy, Karena M. Moran, Kelly Gallagher, and Sandra Halbruner

CASE REPORT

326 Case Report of Vaginal Breech Birth

The use of physiologic vaginal breech birth care may increase options for women and improve positive maternal and neonatal outcomes.

Emily Malloy, Lisa Hanson, Kari Schmidt Oliver, Anne Rivelli, Cassandra Belotti, and Callie Cox Bauer

SPECIAL SERIES: BLACK MATERNAL HEALTHEDITORIALS*332 Advancing Birth Quality by Bridging Historical and Contemporary Gaps in Black Maternal Health

The articles in the series, in which authors advocate for a holistic view of maternal health that integrates the expertise and experiences of traditional and contemporary medical practices, are introduced.

Ndidiama Amutah-Onukagha, Farida N. Yada, and Heather A. Olden

334 Where Are All the Black Midwives?

To improve maternity care experiences for Black women, it is critical to increase the number of Black midwives who are uniquely positioned to provide holistic care.

Heather A. Olden and Farida N. Yada

CRITICAL COMMENTARY338 Traditional Black Midwifery to Enhance Birth Justice

Knowledge interchange across the Black midwifery diaspora through cultural and respectful dialogue between ancestral and modern health care is central to improving maternal health.

Daniel F. M. Suárez-Baquero, Jennie Joseph, and Monica R. McLemore

RESEARCH349 Historical Study of the Graduates of the Tuskegee School of Nurse-Midwifery, a Program for Black Nurses

Historical information about how Black nurse-midwives reduced maternal and infant mortality rates and played multifaceted roles in their communities can help promote interventions to address maternal health in the present day at the individual, community, and structural levels.

Lucinda Canty

361 Perceptions of Provider Inquiry Regarding Housing Status Among Pregnant Women Experiencing Housing Instability

Understanding the perspectives of pregnant women about provider inquiry regarding housing status will improve health system initiatives to address social determinants of health to improve maternal health.

Kelley N. Robinson, Ashley Gresh, Crystal Trent-Paultre, and Ndidiama Amutah-Onukagha

ARTICLES ONLINE

Access these and all articles at <http://jognn.org>.

AWHONN POSITION STATEMENTe1 Expert Witnesses in Women's Health, Obstetric, and Neonatal Nursing

Association of Women's Health, Obstetric and Neonatal Nurses

ONLINE SUPPLEMENTS1 Perinatal Nurse Leader: Clinical Competencies and Education Guide

Association of Women's Health, Obstetric and Neonatal Nurses