EDITORIAL

799 Peer Review in Scientific Scholarship

Expert peer review remains the foundation of quality control in scholarly publishing.

Nancy K. Lowe

REVIEWER ACKNOWLEDGMENT

801 2017 JOGNN Reviewers

LETTER

803 On "Empowering the Girl Child, Improving Global Health"

Jennifer L. Combs

RESEARCH

804 Longitudinal Study of Insomnia Symptoms Among Women During Perimenopause

Insomnia symptoms are prevalent in women during perimenopause, and the stage of perimenopause may increase the risk of developing symptoms of insomnia.

Colleen Ciano, Tonya S. King, Robin Redmon Wright, Michael Perlis, and Amy M. Sawyer

814 Patterns of Symptoms of Perinatal Depression and Stress in Late Adolescent and Young Adult Mothers

Late adolescent mothers had more frequent symptoms of depression and greater perceived stress than young adult mothers during the perinatal period.

Rosamar Torres, Deepika Goyal, Amanda C. Burke-Aaronson, Caryl L. Gay, and Kathryn A. Lee

824 Maternal Characteristics Associated With Social Support in At-Risk Mothers of Premature Infants

Younger mothers and those with limited English ability, multiparity, and histories of mental health problems are at greater risk for low social support.

Rosemary White-Traut, Kristin Rankin, Camille Fabiyi, Li Liu, Irene Cheung, and Kathleen Norr

834 Nurses' Early Recognition of Neonatal Sepsis

Nurses can identify the physiologic and behavioral indicators of sepsis in neonates; this knowledge and intuition are valuable clinical tools.

Michele Boettiger, Lynda Tyer-Viola, and Joseph Hagan

846 Care Experiences of Women Who Used Opioids and Experienced Fetal or Infant Loss

Women who use opioids have complex care needs when dealing with loss, and planned interventions for these women should acknowledge their unique and complicated circumstances.

Lisa F. Scott, Carol Shieh, Rachel A. Umoren, and Teri Conard

REVIEW

857 Systematic Review of Skin-to-Skin Care for Full-Term, Healthy Newborns

Full-term, healthy newborns benefit from immediate and sustained skin-to-skin contact with primary caregivers after birth.

Lisa Cleveland, Catherine M. Hill, Wendi Strauss Pulse, Heather Condo DiCioccio, Tiffany Field, and Rosemary White-Traut

PRINCIPLES & PRACTICE

870 Concept Analysis of Growth Failure in Preterm Infants in the NICU

This concept analysis of growth failure in preterm infants in the NICU will promote a unified operational definition for theoretical construction, research, and clinical practice.

Lindsay K. Schehr and Teresa S. Johnson

SPECIAL REPORT

878 Current Resources for Evidence-Based Practice, November/December 2017

A review of new resources to support the provision of evidence-based care for women and infants.

AWHONN POSITION STATEMENTS

- 886 Emergency Contraception
- 889 Confidentiality in Adolescent Health Care

IN FOCUS EDITORIAL

- 891 Mental Health Screening, Treatment, and Referral During the Perinatal Period
- The Guest Editor demonstrates the importance of screening for depression, anxiety, and traumatic stress in the perinatal period.
- Joanna C. M. Cole*

IN FOCUS

- 895 Principles of Supportive Psychotherapy for Perinatal Distress
- The authors conclude that supportive psychotherapy is a plausible intervention for nurses and other maternity care providers to use with women who experience perinatal anxiety and depression.
- Karen Kleiman and Amy Wenzel*

IN FOCUS CNE

- 904 A Proposed Model for Perinatal Palliative Care
- In perinatal palliative care, comprehensive medical and psychosocial support services are provided for expectant parents who anticipate that their newborns may die before or shortly after birth.
- Joanna C. M. Cole, Julie S. Moldenhauer, Tyra R. Jones, Elizabeth A. Shaughnessy, Haley E. Zarrin, Aimee L. Coursey, and David A. Munson*

IN FOCUS

- 912 Effect of Previous Posttraumatic Stress in the Perinatal Period
- Key findings were related to comorbidity with depression and anxiety, risk factors, and association with adverse health outcomes, which suggests that providers should routinely assess for posttraumatic stress during the perinatal period.
- Pamela A. Geller and Emily C. Stasko*

- 923 Comprehensive Integrated Care Model to Improve Maternal Mental Health
- The authors describe an integrated care model to improve access to care for women who experience mood changes during the perinatal period.
- Elizabeth Q. Cox, Christena Raines, Mary Kimmel, Erin Richardson, Alison Stuebe, and Samantha Meltzer-Brody*
