EDITORIAL

- 465 An Homage to the In Focus Section of JOGNN
The Associate Editor reviews the contribution of In Focus articles to nursing scholarship.
Marilyn Stringer

RESEARCH

- 468 Effects of Shame and Guilt on Error Reporting Among Obstetric Clinicians
Obstetric clinicians' decisions to report their errors are influenced by their proneness to guilt and shame and by organizational factors.
Mara Lynne Zabari and Nancy L. Southern
- 479 Perspectives of Nurses, Nurse Leaders, and Women Regarding Anticipatory Rounds in the Postpartum Period
Anticipatory rounding in the postpartum period is a complex process that is enhanced by a nurse's critical thinking and judgment.
Ashley Wright, Marshe Suderman, Donna Moyer, Khristina Grimm, and Karen H. Morin
- 490 Learning Needs of Women Who Undergo Robotic Versus Open Gynecologic Surgery
Participants who experienced robotic surgery wanted more information about their treatment and illness, medications, activities of daily living, and quality of life than those who experienced laparotomy.
Gonul Kurt, Victoria W. Loerzel, Robert B. Hines, Krystal Tavasci, Sandra Galura, Sarfraz Ahmad, and Robert W. Holloway
- 498 Stress and Quality of Life for Taiwanese Women Who Underwent Infertility Treatment
Older women who weighed more and had more stress related to social concerns were at risk for lower fertility-related quality of life.
Ching-Yu Cheng, Eleanor Lowndes Stevenson, Cheng-Ta Yang, and Shwu-Ru Liou

HEALTH CARE IMPROVEMENT AND EVALUATION

- 509 Social Ecological Examination of Factors That Influence the Treatment of Newborns With Neonatal Abstinence Syndrome
Health care providers should be aware of the multiple factors that influence diagnosis and treatment for infants with neonatal abstinence syndrome.
Lenora Marcellus
- 520 Quality Improvement Initiative to Prevent Admission Hypothermia in Very-Low-Birth-Weight Newborns
Staff education and awareness of admission hypothermia, routine thermal care, proper equipment, and careful monitoring can reduce admission hypothermia in very-low-birth-weight newborns.
Milena Frazer, Amy Ciarlo, Jill Herr, and Carrie-Ellen Briere

METHODS

- 529 Electronic Informed Consent to Facilitate Recruitment of Pregnant Women Into Research
Digital or e-consent methods are feasible for enrolling pregnant women in prospective research and may increase the ability of researchers to recruit diverse samples.
Julia C. Phillippi, Jennifer K. Doersam, Jeremy L. Neal, and Christianne L. Roumie

SPECIAL REPORT

- 535 Current Resources for Evidence-Based Practice, July 2018
